Types of CCW Holsters for Revolvers

Inside the Waistband (IWB) Holsters

IWB holsters are designed to be worn inside the waistband, concealing the firearm close to the body. They offer excellent concealment and can be comfortable with the right fit. However, they may require some adjustment to find the optimal position and can be more difficult to access quickly.

Outside the Waistband (OWB) Holsters

OWB holsters are worn outside the waistband, providing easier and faster access to the firearm. They are often more comfortable to wear for extended periods but can print more easily under clothing.

Appendix Carry Holsters

Appendix carry holsters are a type of IWB holster that is worn at or near the 12 o'clock position, known as the appendix. They offer deep concealment and quick access but can be challenging to wear for some body types.

Shoulder Holsters

Shoulder holsters are worn under the armpit, suspending the firearm under the arm. They provide excellent concealment but can be bulky and uncomfortable for prolonged wear.

Materials and Features

Kydex Holsters

Kydex holsters are made from a durable thermoplastic material that is lightweight and resistant to wear and tear. They offer a secure fit and are often customizable for different firearms.

Leather Holsters

Leather holsters are classic and aesthetically pleasing, made from genuine or bonded leather. They are comfortable to wear but require more maintenance and can stretch over time.

Choosing the Right Holster

Consider Your Body Type and Carry Position

Your body type, size, and preferred carry position will impact the type of holster that is most comfortable and effective for you. IWB holsters are suitable for smaller individuals or those who prioritize concealment, while OWB holsters offer easier access and are better for larger builds.

Determine Your Draw Speed and Concealment Needs

Appendix carry holsters provide the fastest draw but can be uncomfortable for some. IWB holsters offer good concealment and draw speed, while OWB holsters are the easiest to draw from but more noticeable. Shoulder holsters offer deep concealment but can be slow to draw from.

Choose Reputable Brands and Materials

Opt for holsters from reputable brands that use high-quality materials. Kydex and leather are both durable and offer different benefits. Kydex is more durable and weather-resistant, while leather is more comfortable and breathable.
