Houchin's words are raw and honest, capturing the depths of human experience with a rare and profound beauty. Each poem is a journey into the heart of darkness and light, where the reader is invited to confront their own fears, hopes, and dreams.

In "Elegy for a Lost Love," Houchin writes of the pain of heartbreak with a searing honesty that is both heartbreaking and cathartic:

“I remember the day you left,
The way your eyes held mine,
And the words that you spoke,
That cut me like a knife.
I remember the way you walked away,
Without looking back,
And the way my heart shattered,
Into a million pieces.”

But even in the midst of such pain, Houchin finds moments of hope and healing. In "The Light Beyond the Darkness," he writes:

“There is a light beyond the darkness,
A light that shines even in the darkest of times.
It is a light that guides us home,
When we are lost and alone.”

Talking to Shadows is a powerful and moving collection of poems that will resonate with readers of all ages. Houchin's words are a testament to the human spirit, and his ability to find beauty and meaning in even the most difficult of times. This is a book that will stay with you long after you finish reading it.
