Aelfgifu, a Saxon noblewoman, is forced to marry the Norman lord who conquered her family's lands. She must navigate the treacherous waters of a foreign court, where her every move is watched and her life is constantly in danger.

Edith, a Saxon peasant, is taken captive by the Normans and forced to work as a servant in their castle. She dreams of escape, but knows that any attempt to flee will be met with swift and brutal punishment.

Matilda, a Norman noblewoman, is betrothed to the same Norman lord that Aelfgifu married. She is torn between her duty to her family and her growing attraction to Aelfgifu's husband.

As the three women's lives become increasingly intertwined, they must make difficult choices that will shape their destinies forever. Their paths will cross and diverge, but they will always be haunted by the shadow of the Norman Arrow.
